

PETITION: ESTABLISHING COMMUNITIES BASED-SCHOOLS

We, the undersigned citizens of Illinois, believe it is time to rethink our approach to education. The current state of public schools in Chicago is alarming: 83% are unable to read at grade level, and 92% are failing basic math skills and exposure to sexual indoctrination. It is time for a change.

Inspired by the educational model of Booker T. Washington, we advocate for establishing community-based schools that prioritize fundamental skills and character development. Washington's emphasis on practical skills, moral education, and community involvement resonates with us as a blueprint for quality education.

By exiting the public education system and establishing our own schools, we can take control of our children's education and provide them with the knowledge and skills they need to succeed in life. This model empowers parents, teachers, and community members to work together to create a nurturing and effective learning environment for our children.

We call on our fellow citizens to join us in this movement for education reimagine. Let us take inspiration from Booker T. Washington and build a brighter future for our children through community-based education.

Do you believe it is time for parents and communities to take more control over their children's education?
